

Free Concert!

Please join us for a FREE performance of Native American music featuring the BLACK BROOK SINGERS

WHEN: Thursday, August 6th 6:30-7:15 PM

WHERE: National Park Visitor Center Garden

Black Brook Singers

The Black Brook Singers represent the vibrant singing traditions of the Aquinnah Wampanoag people. Singers are members of the Aquinnah Wampanoag Tribe, the indigenous people of Noepe, a.k.a., Martha's Vineyard. Group members have been sharing their songs and culture for over 20 years at community events, powwows, in classrooms and at other forums to raise awareness of the vibrant singing and cultural traditions of the Wampanoag and other indigenous communities. The group's focus is on the southern style of powwow singing and also many of the more traditional (non-powwow) songs of the Wampanoag and other eastern woodlands indigenous peoples.